ISLAND INFORMATION

Koh Yao Noi (The Main Island) & Koh Yao Yai are two sister islands situated in the bay of Phang-Nga between Phuket and Krabi. These islands are easily accessible from all three provinces and have recently become a popular tourist destination for its tropical rainforest atmosphere with several untamed beaches in a friendly and not intrusive environment.

Having its own microclimate with lesser rainfall, lower humidity, and lots of sunshine and cooler nights than most part of southern Thailand it is a paradise holiday destination.

Koh Yao is home to eco-tourism with an abundance of floral and fauna, beautiful sceneries from spectacular limestone cliff islands in the surrounding sea to the lush greenery of rice padi-fields with grazing water buffalos. It is also filled with fun activities like bird watching, trekking, rock-climbing, fishing, scuba diving, kayaking, snorkeling, biking, basking, village expedition and more.

Accommodations in the island ranges from back-packers and home-stay lodgings to luxury bungalows and resorts, all providing a unique hospitality that is tastefully different. There are several laidback bars, restaurants and massage centers to cater to eventful outings during the day or night.

The total population in Koh Yao are approximately 12,000 residents. Most are predominately friendly Muslim villagers who are fishermen, rubber tappers, fruits and rice farmers, craftsmen of all sorts and hospitality accommodators.

So, if you are looking for an alternative place for a fun, rejuvenating and relaxing time do come and be with us.

It is advised to dress politly when visiting local villages.*
